1. Course Description

This course is designed to equip students with a comprehensive set of skills to excel in both spoken and written forms of communication. The course objectives encompass two fundamental pillars: oral fluency and compositional prowess. Through immersive learning experiences, students will refine their ability to engage confidently and adeptly in a diverse array of personal, professional, academic, and cultural contexts, bolstering their oral communication skills. In tandem, the course will introduce the art of effective written expression, nurturing students' capacity to craft compelling and organized written compositions. By intertwining these essential aspects, students will develop a holistic communication skill set that not only encompasses conversational strategies and fluency but also encompasses the ability to articulate thoughts eloquently and cohesively in written form. The course will further cultivate active listening competencies, enabling students to comprehend varying viewpoints in real-world situations and fostering their capability to contribute thoughtfully within the global community. As a result, this integrated approach to communication and composition will empower students to thrive as adept and adaptable communicators in an interconnected world.
