1. Course Description

This course is a practice-oriented advanced elective designed for third-year students to comprehensively develop the individual skills, tactical knowledge, and physical fitness required in basketball. In the first half (Weeks 1–7), students systematically build foundational individual skills including dribbling, passing, shooting, lay-ups, and rebounding. In the second half (Weeks 9–15), students advance to team offensive tactics, defensive systems, position-specific roles, and real-game applications such as screens, pick-and-roll, and fast breaks. An intra-class mini-league and final tournament allow students to apply everything learned in competitive game settings. Throughout the semester, teamwork, communication, and fair play are equally emphasized alongside technical skill, with the goal of cultivating basketball as a sport students can enjoy for life.

2. Core Target Competencies

[illegible]

6. Adaptability / Spirit of Adventure	Basketball is a sport where mistakes are inevitable — missed shots, turnovers, and defensive breakdowns happen constantly. The key is the immediate mental recovery and physical re-engagement that follows. Students build this competency by playing unfamiliar positions, adapting to shifting team compositions, and embracing challenge as the engine of growth.
7. Integrity and Ethical Decision Making	Integrity in basketball means calling your own foul, acknowledging an out-of-bounds, and respecting the scoreboard regardless of the pressure. Students practice ethical decision-making in every possession — even without a referee — and carry the habit of honest, respectful competition beyond the gymnasium into daily life.
8. Habits / Mindset	Basketball can be enjoyed for life — through club teams, 3x3 competitions, and pick-up games long after graduation. Students learn that curiosity about their own technique, the discipline of deliberate practice, and the social bonds forged through team sport are the foundations of a lifelong active and healthy lifestyle.
