1. Course Description

This course is a practice-oriented advanced elective designed for third-year students to comprehensively develop the individual skills, tactical knowledge, and physical fitness required in badminton. In the first half (Weeks 1–7), students systematically build foundational skills including grip, footwork, basic strokes (clear, drop shot, smash, net shot), and serving, culminating in singles game practice. In the second half (Weeks 9–15), students are introduced to doubles play in a gentle, step-by-step progression — starting from court rules and cooperative rallying, moving through basic serving and simple attack/defense patterns, and then applying everything in three rounds of singles and doubles league play plus a final tournament. Throughout the semester, concentration, fair play, and self-regulation are equally emphasized alongside technical skill, with the goal of cultivating badminton as a sport students can enjoy for life.

2. Core Target Competencies

Subject Core Competencies	1. Analytical and Creative Thinking	2. Complex Communication	3. Leadership and Teamwork	4. Digital / Quantitative Literacy	5. Global Perspective	6. Adaptability / Spirit of Adventure	7. Integrity and Ethical Decision Making	8. Habits / Mindset
Competency	Definition in Physical Education
1. Analytical and Creative Thinking	In badminton, this competency means reading an opponent's stance and racket position, then selecting the most effective stroke — clear, drop, or smash — to gain tactical advantage. Students develop this by analyzing rally patterns and choosing the right moment to switch from defense to attack.
2. Complex Communication	In doubles badminton, clear communication between partners — dividing court coverage, signaling rotations, and sharing serve strategies — is the foundation of effective teamplay. In singles, students exchange tactical analysis and constructive feedback with peers and coaches, building respectful communication habits both on and off the court.
3. Leadership and Teamwork	Leadership in doubles badminton shows in a partner's ability to organize formations, communicate calmly under pressure, and encourage their partner after a mistake. Students practice both leadership and followership through shared role responsibilities and co-creating game strategies with their partner.
4. Digital/Quantitative Literacy	In badminton, this competency is expressed through analyzing game data — serve success rate, smash conversion rate, and average rally length — and using that information to guide tactical decisions. Students review their own play, set measurable improvement goals, and adjust their training focus based on evidence.
5. Global Perspective	Badminton is played and celebrated by hundreds of millions worldwide — from the BWF World Championships and Olympics to the Thomas and Uber Cups. Students explore the distinct playing styles and cultures of countries like Korea, China, Indonesia, and Denmark, developing an appreciation for how sport connects cultural identity and international community.

6. Adaptability / Spirit of Adventure	Badminton demands constant adaptation — to an unpredictable shuttlecock trajectory, a shifting opponent tactic, or a new doubles partner. Students build this competency by trying unfamiliar grips and tactics, recovering focus quickly after losing a point, and embracing new physical and tactical challenges with an open and adventurous mindset.
7. Integrity and Ethical Decision Making	Badminton requires honest judgment in subtle situations — whether a shuttlecock landed in or out, whether a racket made contact, or whether a serve was a fault. Students practice ethical decision-making by acknowledging their own mistakes without a referee, respecting an opponent's calls, and valuing the integrity of the game above the outcome.
8. Habits / Mindset	Badminton is a lifelong sport — all it takes is a racket and a shuttlecock, and it can be played indoors or outdoors with family, friends, or colleagues long after graduation. Students learn that curiosity about their technique, the value of consistent practice, and the social connections built through sport are the foundations of a lifelong active and healthy lifestyle.

3. Textbooks and References

- A. Textbook: No required textbook
- B. References
 - Multimedia and web resources provided by the instructor as needed

4. Class Method

- A. Progressive Skill Training: Systematic instruction from grip and basic strokes (clear, drop, smash) through to singles and doubles tactics, building step by step.
- B. Game-Centered Learning (TGfU): Modified singles and doubles game formats allow students to develop skills naturally in a game context and build tactical problem-solving ability.
- C. Tactical Analysis and Peer Coaching: Video analysis of rally situations, partner feedback sessions, and strategy discussions to develop Badminton IQ.
- ※ League and Tournament: Three rounds of singles and doubles league play plus a final tournament provide meaningful competitive experience and reinforce sportsmanship.

5. Evaluation

A. Evaluation Criteria

Participation	Effort	Badminton Skills	Game Participation	Attendance & Attitude	Sum
20%	20%	20%	20%	20%	100%

B. Evaluation Method

(1) Attendance & Attitude (10%)

- Regular and punctual attendance is essential for consistent skill development throughout the semester
- Being late more than 10 minutes = absence
- Being late 5-10 minutes = tardy (2 tardies = 1 absence)

(2) Participation & Effort (40% combined)

- Active engagement in all drills, games, and activities
- Demonstration of consistent effort and improvement mindset
- Positive contribution to team dynamics and class atmosphere
- Willingness to attempt new skills and accept coaching feedback

(3) Badminton Skills Assessment (20%)

Policies

- Appropriate Attire: Non-marking indoor badminton shoes or athletic shoes, athletic clothing allowing full range of motion, no jewelry or accessories that pose injury risk. Penalty: Points deducted from participation grade.
- Conduct: Respect, sportsmanship, and positive behavior expected at all times. Safe use of rackets and shuttlecocks is mandatory; swinging a racket toward others is strictly prohibited. Penalty for Poor Conduct: Point deductions and formal warnings.

6. Criteria for Awarding Credits

- ☞ Pass: Students who receive a score of 70 or more out of 100 according to the evaluation criteria.
- ☞ Students with excellent academic achievement are recommended for the Academic Excellence Award and are recorded according to core competencies in the Subject Details. However, students with poor academic attitude or poor attendance are excluded.
- Attendance for at least three-quarters of the total class hours is required to earn credit.
- For Pass/Fail courses, if the instructor determines that a specific evaluation element is insufficient and requires a separate evaluation, a separate evaluation may be conducted.
- In the absence of a written exam score, the average score from performance-based assessments shall be used as the basis score for calculating the recognized score. Furthermore, pursuant to Article 10, Paragraph ③ of the Academic Performance Management Regulations (Amended March 11, 2025), which states that 'regardless of whether a basis score can be calculated, the instructor may, if deemed necessary and following deliberation by the departmental council, administer a separate written examination to absent students,' a separate written examination may be conducted at the instructor's discretion.
- ※ Refer to the "Academic Performance Management Regulations" for the percentage of credit points applied.
